1. Brand Banner
2. Brand Logo
3. Brand Name
4. Menu type
5. Search menu
6. Category
7. Product
8. Side cart
9. Checkout button

The Brand Information section should look similar to Image 1.

Image 1: Brand banner, logo and name

The 'Menu type' is to be displayed below the Brand Information section. There will be 4 types of menus; Breakfast Menu [6:00 AM – 9:59 AM], Lunch Menu [10:00 AM – 5:29 PM], Dinner Menu [5:30 PM – 11:59 PM] and Dessert Menu [7:00 PM – 11:59 PM].

The 'Search Menu' does not need to be functional; it is needed for design purposes only.

Image 2: Menu type & Search menu

The 'Category' appears below the Menu type and Search. This category section will be horizontally scrollable.
If a particular category is selected, then the user should be directed to that category. Also, if a user is scrolling through the menu, then the category displayed should be highlighted in the Category section as well.

Image 3: Category

There will be 10 different categories with different products. You are expected to incorporate the following list for categories and products in the menu;

CHECKOUT PAGE -

Once the user clicks on the Checkout button on the Brand Menu page then it should re-direct user to the Checkout page. The following are the elements of Checkout page:

1. Order summary
2. Pay Now button

An order summary along with the category and product name is to be displayed. The title of the page should be "My Cart". There should be a "Back to Store" button beside the title.

← Back to Store

Image 6: Back to Store button

When a user clicks on 'Back to Store' button then they should be redirected to Brand Menu page. You are expected to maintain the state of the latest Cart items and previously selected Category through Redux.js.

The "Pay Now" button is to be placed under the Order Summary. It should stay pinned while the user is scrolling through the Order Summary.
